PIRATED CALCULATOR RACKET BUSTED

Varanasi Police busted a pirated calculator racket on Sunday with the arrest of a young trader from Kundigarh Tola locality.

Acting on a complaint by a leading multi-national Japanese company, the Chowk Police arrested Zeeshan alias Janu from his shop-cum-house and recovered pirated scientific calculators worth over Rs 45,000.

The multinational firm had complained that pirated products bearing the company's label were being sold in the crowded market in Kundigarh Tola in the Chowk police station area.

A team of the multi-national company's officials also accompanied the Chowk Police during the raid on Zeeshan's shop-cum-house.

During initial questioning, Zeeshan admitted that a man used to supply him with the pirated calculators, SHO (Chowk) Santosh Singh said.

A manhunt has been launched for the person supplying the pirated calculators in the locality having many shops of electronic gadgets.
